DISTINGUISHING FEATURES OF THE CLASS:

This is a professional social service resource position that works as part of a defense team toward the goal of obtaining a disposition that is in the best interests of the clients. The primary objective of this position is to reduce the number of persons incarcerated and the attendant expense of that custody by providing the courts with viable alternatives to pre-trial detention and incarceration sentences. The advocate frees up attorneys and investigators by identifying and advocating for alternative sentencing programs, i.e. drug and alcohol counseling, referral services, eligibility for release, etc., thereby assisting in the ongoing efforts to relieve jail overcrowding. This position will also assist Attorney's in Family Court work with clients charged with neglect and child abuse and similar type of legal proceedings. The incumbent works directly with clients, the Departments of Probation and Community Corrections, Mental Health and Health, human service agencies, and other governmental agencies to achieve programmatic goals, meeting with them on an ongoing basis to review appropriate candidates for pre-trial release and other programs. Direction and assistance will also be provided to those clients needing immediate intervention for public assistance or public shelter. Work is performed under the general direction of a higher-level administrator. Supervision over the work of others is not a function of this position.

TYPICAL WORK ACTIVITIES:

The following is indicative of the level and types of activities performed by incumbents in this title. It is not meant to be all inclusive and does not preclude a supervisor from assigning activities not listed which could be reasonably expected to be performed by an employee in this title.

1. Interviews pre-trial clients and develops a profile of personal issues to determine need and eligibility for an ATI option;
2. Maintains individual caseload and develops mitigation reports, pre-plea or pre-sentence reports, pre-trial release or treatment plans and similar services for specified clients who are at risk of a jail or prison sentence, including those offenders who have violated their conditions of probation;
3. Provides information and referral services to a minimum of 100 additional clients for whom the availability of such information and referral services shall help to assure both a non-incarceration disposition and a more successful adjustment to the community;
4. Works with defense counsel to develop greater awareness and knowledge on the attorney's part of alternative sentencing options;
5. Assesses the client's needs and follows up by locating and making referrals to direct service programs;
6. Develops and maintains effective working relationships with those community based agencies which can provide assessments and necessary services to pre-trial prisoners;
7. May assist clients to access appropriate programs, provide counseling, case management, and advocacy services;
8. May be required to transport or visit clients in various programs or locations;
9. Participates at the weekly meetings with other criminal justice representatives to review appropriate candidates for pre-trial release.

In the Department of Mental Health

1. Facilitates stakeholder meetings with law enforcement, treatment providers, attorneys, business owners, officials, and others as it relates to pre-trial diversion from incarceration;
2. Designs, implements, and oversees pre-trial diversion processes;
